U.J.A. Concert

A benefit concert, sponsored by the Junior Division of the United Jewish Appeal, will be presented in Carnegie Hall, December 28 at 8:30 p.m.

Yehudi Menuhin will be the featured soloist, together with the Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Leonard Bernstein. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will be guest speaker.

Students interested in attending this concert may contact Naomi Cooper for tickets.

Greek Games

Freshmen and sophomores who are interested in registering for Greek Games Athletics or Dance may sign the poster on the South Bulletin Board in the gymnasium. The poster will be taken down January 15. This will complete freshman registration for the indoor season in Physical Education. Sophomores who are participating in the Games, however, must register for one other activity.

About Town

(Cont. from page 2, col. 3) in a free program. Rhythms of Spain at the Museum of Natural History on December 30. . . Dancer Paul Draper and his side-kick, harmonicist Larry Adler, are scheduled for Christmas week at the City Center, where they will be strictly an asset. . . Meanwhile you can still see Gian-Carlo Menotti's unusual operas The Medium and The Telephone (also at City Center). . . Carnegie and Town Hall, of course, have a variety of musical events. Consult the daily paper for the exact programs. . . Last, but not least, there is the opera at the Metropolitan. Whether you prefer it light or heavy, sung by Tagliavini or Melchior, Traubel or Sayão, there is at least one that will suit your taste.

Something Different

I WANT TO DO SOMETHING "DIFFERENT": Drop down to the National Arts Club (15 Gramercy Park) before December 23 and see their 43rd Annual New Books Exhibit, the oldest book show in America. It is free and you can browse where you please. . . If you have to amuse your younger brother Tommy for an afternoon, visit the Toy Show at the Museum of Science and Industry (RCA Building) — you'll have as much fun as he will. . . The Star of Bethlehem sky show at the Hayden Planetarium, as well as other astronomy programs, make an interesting way to spend an hour or two some day. . . The Museum of New York City (104th Street and 5th Ave.) will surprise you. The museum is unique and fascinating. . . Attention plant and flower lovers! See the Bronx Botanical Gardens' rare and beautiful specimens. . .

Centennial

And best of all, there is the 100th Anniversary Exhibition at the New York Public Library (through December 31). Some 100 historical and literary treasures of the museum are on display, among which are a Gutenberg Bible, a Shakespeare First Folio, manuscripts of Mark Twain and George Washington, and first copies of Champlain's and John Smith's narratives. Have a good time! and a Merry, MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Red Dean Asks Soviet Peace

Hewlett Johnson, Anglican Dean of Canterbury who has been nicknamed the "red dean," addressed a group of college students on peace and co-operation with the Soviet Union at a meeting held in the Barbizon Plaza last Sunday, December 12. The meeting was sponsored by a special committee organized by students from various New York City colleges.

Dean Johnson pointed out in his address that in a recent trip through the countries of Eastern Europe and Russia, he saw nothing that led him to believe that the western countries need fear any Soviet aggression. The Dean stated that the Russians had "no economic drive for war, as they have no unemployment problem."

Attacks on Freedom

In discussing the recent attacks on academic freedom in America, Johnson said that the "war hysteria" here was responsible. In England, he continued, it was still possible for a recognized Communist to hold important positions in scientific and teaching fields without being subject to attack. He further emphasized that, in all of the Eastern European countries which he visited, there was complete freedom of religion, "with no favored position given to any church by the state."

Johnson has recently spoken at Yale and the University of Wisconsin.

Change Spring Term Program

History 36, History of American Thought Since the Civil War, and Sociology 36, Study of Urban Social Stratification, are two new courses offered for the spring semester.

History 36 will cover such influences on American thought as Darwinism, Freudianism, and Marxism. Readings from William James, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Theodore Dreiser, H. L. Mencken, and Walter Lippman will be part of the course. Pre-requisites are History 9-10 or History 3, 4, or by special permission. Mr. Allen R. Clark will be the instructor.

Sociology Course

Sociology 36 will deal with levels of living in large cities placing special emphasis on the working classes. Sociology 1 is the only pre-requisite. Individual projects and field trips will be part of the course which will be taught by Professor Gladys Meyer.

Other courses which will be given this spring not scheduled in the Bulletin of Information are English 42, Geology 28, Geology 30, Government 16, Government 20, History 34, History 38, Music 32, Philosophy 42 and Philosophy 92.

Courses removed from the curriculum are History 30, Geology 16, Italian 16, Music 110, Physics 36, Physics 40, Sociology 42, and Zoology 122.

Bureau Seeks Volunteers To Care for Needy Children

(Cont. from page 2, col 4) is at first that of teacher and pupil, but then it graduates to "sisters." The psychological reason for this is probably that they have never come in contact with any other kind of authority. Esther Monaco '51, Chairman of the Community Bureau, declares that she tries to avoid being called "Miss" or "teacher," as this is an unhealthy attitude for the children to take. Barnard students try to take the place of mother or mother's helper as much as possible, because the majority of the group lacks parental attention. Their mothers are out working all day long, and very often there is no provision made for the child's food whatsoever.

Effects

Absence of family and of home life very often reflect themselves in the individual behavior of the child. He will rebel against all authority. If the others color their Christmas cards red and green, he will color his yellow. It takes a while to break down the barrier of hostility which he has built up around himself. But once this barrier is broken down, by occupation, and by show of affection and interest on the part of Barnard students, he is liable to go just the other way. He will fly into tantrums until someone rumples his hair and pats him on the back. Just so much is affection needed by these children.

Finances

Nor is lack of finances the direct cause of hostility, although it might be called the indirect cause. The groups who come to Community Center are not those who belong to the lowest economic bracket. This is evident in the fact that they have plenty of money for cokes and candy, and also for carfare. Besides, their parents have to pay a fee of $2.50 per year, by installment if necessary, to insure the care of their children. This fee is essential to the Center, as it is in very bad need of funds. And so, lack of finance is not as harmful to them as lack of security and affection.

And this is why Miss Monaco is always so desperately in need of volunteers to spend a few hours a week with these children. She so earnestly emphasizes that "the work of Community Service is satisfying to the individual."

Reporters Get Details On Boyer and Maison

By Gloria Hillman and Marlies Wolf

Last Friday we got one of the coveted invitations to the famous "Maison Francaise" at 120th Street. We were doubly excited about seeing the inside of the "Maison", since the formal invitation-card boasted of Charles Boyer as the guest of honor at the reception. The movie star has just received rave notices for his first Broadway appearance as the star of Sartre's new play "The Red Gloves."

The Arrival

We arrived, were carefully screened at the door, and began to wait and to smoke. We smoked and waited, hungrily looking at delicate sandwiches that could not be touched until the guest had arrived.

The Maison is aptly named, because everyone really makes use of the language. The Bulletin delegation stayed at one side and looked at the Daumiers on the wall. That way you don't have to talk!

Grand Entrance

Our anxiety and waiting were rewarded at last when Monsieur Boyer made his entrance. He is indeed the suave "gentilhomme" that we knew he would be from our experience with movies. We managed to get him to talk to us. We learned all sorts of things such as the existence of his 5-year-old son who evidently speaks French approximately as Barnard students do. Mr. Boyer confessed that he plans to take him to France one day so that he may achieve fluency in the language. Mr. Boyer has been in this country for 18 years but his love is "still split" between his native country and his adopted home.

First Stage Performance

Although his Broadway appearance is his first stage performance in this country, Mr. Boyer acted in many amateur and professional companies in France. When asked about the current news items concerning the arguments between Jean-Paul Sartre and the American producers, he answered: "The play is an exact translation of the Sartre text although a few scenes have been cut." Sartre evidently had been misinformed as to the extent of the changes.

Needless to say we had an interesting time at the reception. Unfortunately we did not get a chance to taste any of the sandwiches; by this time there were none left. Such is the fate of the "Fourth Estate!"

Leaving for Galveston, Texas via New Orleans at noon, December 22nd. Desire four passengers to share expenses. Call Miss Mildred Grossman at WAdsworth 3-2500, ext 606, the Medical Center.
