

2000 School Editors At CSPA Convention

Award Luncheon, Fashion Show and Films Will Feature Twentieth Annual March Gathering

By IRWIN ODER

More than two thousand high school and elementary school journalists from twenty-three states gathered in McMillin Theater yesterday afternoon for the introductory session of the twentieth annual Columbia Scholastic Press Convention. Following two days of general sessions, sectional meetings, and clinics, the Convention, whose theme is "Working for Victory—Planning for Peace," will come to a close with the presentation of awards at the Convention luncheon, to be held at 12:30 tomorrow in the Hotel Astor.

The opening session today will take place at 10:30 A. M. in McMillin, with L. Carrington Goodrich, Acting Director of University Admissions, presiding. Addresses will be given by Frank C. Clough, of the Office of Censorship, and Meirick K. Dutton, of the Paper Rationing Division of the War Production Board. At 11:30, the Convention photographs will be taken on the steps of Low Library. This will be followed by another general session at 1:30, at which Frank D. Fackenthal, Provost of Columbia University, will preside.

Other Speakers

Other speakers will be the Hon. Victor F. Ridder, publisher of the Catholic News and the Journal of Commerce, and Joseph Gaer, of the War Savings Staff of the Treasury Department. After this session, the group will break up into sections, each of which will consider a phase of scholastic journalistic problems, and will meet again at 4:30 in McMillin.

The schedule for Saturday will begin with a program of films at 9:15 A. M. At 10:30, R. H. Macy and Co. will present a fashion show, after which there will be round table meetings until 11:30. The Convention will conclude with the presentation of awards at the luncheon.

The Convention was opened yesterday by a general session in McMillin, at which Charles F. Troxell, acting director of the CSPA, presided. Associate Dean Nicholas McKnight delivered the address of welcome. Other speakers included Capt. William Haskell, assistant to the president of the Herald Tribune, and Edgar Gilbert, the Overseas Club Director, American Red Cross. Sectional meetings and clinics followed, and at 4:30 there was a special feature lecture by Robert L. (Believe It or Not) Ripley.

St. Clair To Organize New V-12 Radio Program

Organization of the Navy CURC staff has been undertaken by Byron St. Clair, V-12'er, to produce a variety-comedy show about V-12 life called "Now Hear This." Script and copy for the show will be written by St. Clair, who directs Navy on the Air activities.

He plans to record the program the afternoon in order to air it a 9:00 every Friday night.

Payments On '44 Yearbook Due March 31

March 31 is the final deadline for payment on the balance due on the 1944 Columbian, Dave Becker, editor-in-chief, announced yesterday. Becker stressed that complete payment must be made by this date, or the increased price of the book, one dollar extra, will immediately go into effect.

"In other words," added Becker, "if you haven't paid up by the 31st, your subscription will be considered as having been placed after the original deadline for the increase in price."

Copies of Columbian are still available to anyone who places his deposit on file before April 15, deadline for ordering the book. Becker pointed out that Freshmen were particularly urged to subscribe, and that the deadline had been advanced for them. Reductions for Student Association and King's Crown membership are still in effect.

Seniors who have had their pictures taken for Columbian are requested to drop up at the Columbian office before the 31st, 407 at noon and 405 at other times in John Jay, to fill out an Activity Blank.

Glee Club Holds Party Tonight in Lion's Den

The Columbia University Glee Club will hold a party and general get-together tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the new Lion's Den. All students interested in becoming members are especially urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

This term the Glee Club will concentrate on songs to be used in the forthcoming Varsity Show. Nevertheless the greater portion of the season will be devoted to singing purely for its enjoyment.

the engineering department of CURC and is the engineer in charge of "Campus Caravan," is engaged in supervising the sound-proofing of CURC's walls. He has just completed the remodeling of the control room.

Continuity for "Now Hear This" will include latest V-12 development, music, Navy gags, news from V-12 units in other colleges, and a general humorous-musical presentation of V-12 existence.

Contest Open For Cover Of Varsity Show Jester Issue

Entries for Columbia's traditional contest for the design of the cover of Jester-Review, to be used as a program for the 1944 Varsity Show "On The Double," will be accepted in the Varsity Show, Jester or Kings Crown Offices on the fourth floor of John Jay Hall.

The design which will also be printed on all Varsity Show posters carries with it a prize of $10. Since the theme of the show is the accelerated college and Navy V-12 program at Columbia, any design suggesting that motif will be acceptable. Anyone who is enrolled in the university is eligible.

Judges of the contest, which is jointly sponsored by Jester and the Varsity Show, are Benjamin Hubbard, director of Kings Crown Activities, Theodore Hoffman, editor of Jester-Review and Preston Munter, manager of the Columbia University Players. The final date for accepting entries has been set at April 1.

Thru the efficient work of Gerry Griffin and Hugh Kittle, Assistant Managers representing the V-12 unit, the Navy turnout has been very gratifying. Plans are being made to accommodate the large volume of singing, acting and production talent in the unit.

Several V-12 skits and musical numbers in which only Navy men take part, will highlight the show. A trick march number done by a crack drill squad will close the first act. During this scene, the V-12 song written for the unit by Louis Garisto, will be introduced. Both Kittle and Griffin will be featured in the acting and singing departments.

Rehearsal schedules for both the Navy and civilian actors will be posted weekly on the Varsity Show bulletin board in the lobby of Hamilton Hall as well as in Hartley and Livingston.

Chaplain Rice To Address Seixas Monday At Four

Chaplain Otis R. Rice will be guest speaker at the Seixas-Menorah Open House Monday at four o'clock. His talk will be on "The Role of Religion in the Healing Process."

This term's weekly discussion group program begins today with a meeting at 3 p.m. in Room L, Earl Hall. A similar weekly series will begin next Tuesday at 4:15 for the convenience of those who cannot attend on Friday. The committee in charge of the programs consists of Ernest Schwartz, chairman, and Judy Wasser, secretary.

The campaign for the United Jewish Appeal headed by Lawrence Ross is proceeding successfully. Over $300 has been raised towards the $500 goal. Further contributions should be given to a member of the committee or sent to Room L, Earl Hall.

A concert of Jewish choral music, directed by Dr. Jacob Weinberg will be held March 25, at 8:30 P. M. in Earl Hall.

Lion's Den Open Till 11 Tomorrow Night

The Lion's Den, which was open last Friday, will be open from 8 to 11 p.m. tomorrow night. Last week's evening proved to be very successful, according to the House Committee, and it is the intention of the group to determine the evening or evenings best suited for civilian and V-12 students.

During the next few weeks the committee plans to set aside different nights in order to make a final selection. As was announced earlier, girls will be allowed to attend when escorted by Den members.

Polls Open 12-2, 4-6 On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

By ARTHUR LAZARUS

Five Navy V-12 men and ten college undergraduates have submitted petitions to the Elections Commission as nominations for posts on the Emergency Council. A special election to fill five vacant posts on the board, three civilian and two Navy, will take place Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Balloting will be held on these days from 12-2 and 4-6.

In the election separate ballots will be given to civilian and Navy voters. V-12 men will cast their votes in the lobbies of Livingston and Hartley Halls, and they will nominate only Navy members: Apprentice Seamen Thomas Briggs, Gerry Griffin, Clifford Huck, Hugh Kittle, and Byron St. Clair. Positions on the Emergency Council which were vacated by the resignations of Everett Roach and Gordon Dubuque will then be given to the two candidates with the highest number of votes. Warren Serenbetz, also a V-12, still remains in office until his term expires.

Three To Be Chosen

From the ten civilians running for office, there will be chosen for the Emergency Council. These posts were made available by the departure of Howard Joyce, secretary-treasurer, to the Army, and also by the fact that appointed members Alfred Tanz and Theodore Hoffman must either relinquish their posts or stand for election.

In the civilian voting, which takes place in Hamilton Hall, at least one senior must be elected to fill one of the two places required to be held by members of the highest class. The other place is now occupied by Fairfield Hoban, chairman of the Council, whose term does not expire until May. Voting for this position will be in a separate section from that of the underclassmen and Warren Wonka will run unopposed.

Students in the lower three years of college who have submitted petitions endorsed by at least ten names are as follows: Richard Bauman, Durham Caldwell, Howard Cohen, Rhys Hays, William Kanehann, Robert Martin, David McConnell, Don Summa, and Fred Tanz. These men will compete for the remaining two seats left contested on the Emergency Council.

V-12 Men Active

Records of the Navy V-12 men nominated for office show that they have taken an active part in college life despite heavy wartime programs. Kittle and Griffin are both high ranking managers of the Varsity Show. Briggs and also Kittle are members of the Dormitory Council. St. Clair is chief engineer of radio station CURC, and Griffin is on the staff.

Wonka has, for the past two terms, been unofficially associated with the Emergency Council, and he has been chairman of several committees for various dances.

15 Candidates In Emergency Council Race

Bauman is president of the Pre-Law Society and an active member of the Debate Council. Caldwell, a resident of the Hastings Hall dormitory, is a member of the CURC staff and a contributor to Jester.

Cohen, a brother in Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, is an active member of S.A.A.C. Hays is a leading campus chess player and McConnell played on the second string football team. Martin holds positions on the Debate Council, Jester, and Spectator; Summa, a member of Spectator News Board, also is on the Business Board of the Varsity Show, secretary of C.S.A., and a candidate for S.A.A.C. Tanz, at present an appointed member of the Emergency Council, is also president of the Debate Council, chairman of the Elections Commission, and business manager of Jester.

First Since May

The coming college balloting will be the first school election since last May. The Emergency Council constitution calls for elections at least once a year under normal conditions and special elections if undue loss of members takes place. Because Tanz and Wonka, both members of the Elections Commission which supervises all elections, are also on the ballot, they have become temporarily inactive and have been replaced. Robert Shimm is now chairman of the group.

All votes for the coming election will be counted according to the proportional representation system. Voters will signify their choices by numbers instead of checks or other marks. Any ballots not marked by the P. R. system will be declared invalid. Electioneering near the polls will also invalidate ballots and if flagrant will be brought before the Elections Commission. A write-in vote will be legal.

Hello, Editors

Swarming around the campus each year, high school editors from all over the nation gather under the direction of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association to review the techniques and progress of the journalistic world. They assemble, herd towards the theater, frighten the neat blue ranks of the marching Navy men, and stare curiously at the civilian population. For the first two days, everybody thinks that the campus has been overrun with large gremlins.

No spot on the campus is safe; faces poke around classroom doors, timid steps sound along corridors where no student has walked in years, and the Professors have as many strange people in their classes as they do in Freshmen week.

Finally the University absorbs them, though. The respect that was lost when these out-of-town editors first looked at Spectator's tiny office is regained by the caliber of the work accomplished. The guest speakers gently answer the queries put to them by eager shining faces. Filled with dreams of glory, fired on by the stirring address of the Times man, each editor prepares for the homeward journey knowing that someday he will come back!

Everybody tucks away his thumb-smudged program, and dustily boards the train. Back in Keokuk or Oshkosh the editor proudly displays his new knowledge to an awed reportorial staff. The University settles down until next year.

Let No Man . . .

Elections of student leaders come only once a year; there is always time to rest or study. Next week Columbia students will have the opportunity to choose Emergency Council representatives for the coming term. It is the duty of every man, not only a duty to his school but to himself, to make sure that he shows his opinion by casting a serious ballot. Let no man say that he did not have time to vote.

During the past few months there has been much substantiated criticism of the present campus administration. In various college publications both sides have been presented and reviewed. Charges have been made that Emergency Council is not truly representative of campus thought and requests for a new election have been made. Now a special election has finally been arranged and the question has been thrown squarely before every member of the college.

The result of this election will do more than change the faces that group around Emergency Council's discussion table; it will re-vitalize the Council by vindicating whichever side of the issue the students democratically choose.

There is small need to level more charges against the actions of Emergency Council, or to reiterate their defenses. Whether or not the Council has represented the opinions of the student body is a matter of student opinion. At this stage of the game indignation and favoritism will both be subject to judgment. But it is not enough just to make up your mind one way or the other. That's not the purpose of this editorial.

"Let no man say that he did not have time to vote."

Lion Nine To Begin Season With Brooklyn

Inaugural On April 18; 3 Regattas For Oarsmen

Andy Coakey's 30th Columbia baseball team will open a twenty-game campaign against Brooklyn College at Baker Field on Saturday, April 8. The Varsity crew, headed by Hube Glendon, will race in three regattas this Spring, the inaugural meet being scheduled for May 6 at New York.

The Lion nine has listed two games with service foes, Floyd Bennett Field and the Staten Island Coast Guard, as well as eight contests with traditional Eastern League opponents.

Eleven contests are slated for the Baker Field diamond. Two doubleheaders, both with League teams, will find the Coakey men playing host to Dartmouth on June 3 and traveling to Ithaca for the season finale with Cornell on June 10. The League, for the second consecutive year, will operate with home-and-home series contested between the Lions, Big Red, Indians, Princeton, and Pennsylvania.

The schedules:

Columbians Plan to Revive Soccer On Informal Basis

In response to a continued demand on the part of Columbia College students, plans are being drafted to revive the Columbia Soccer Club of last year.

At the present time, twenty men have signified their intention of entering the boot-ers fold. Roman Bernaut, organizer of the '44 forces, has called a meeting of all those who are interested, with or without experience, to be held in the City Room, fourth floor, John Jay at noon Wednesday.

South Field will probably be used as a practice field, while all the home games will be played at Baker Field. According to Bernaut, present plans do not include contests outside the metropolitan area.

The future of such a proposal is promising. Last year, soccer returned to the Morningside campus for the first time since 1912, but on an informal, non-intercollegiate basis. The squad, which then had on its roster several experienced high school, college, and foreign booters, hopes this year to be able to take on all comers, while its long-time aim is to place soccer again on an intercollegiate level. Many of the Ivy League colleges fielded teams last year and are going to continue competition throughout the war.

40 Entries Received For Bowling Tourney

More than forty entries have been submitted for the intramural bowling tournament which gets under way next week at Riverside Church, Dave Furman, intramural director, announced yesterday. He emphasized that today is the last day entries will be accepted for the competition.

A water polo tournament will be held in the near future, Furman revealed, but, due to the difficulty in getting free pool time at convenient hours, civilian participation will be limited, if not entirely eliminated.

Spec Five Sees Action

The Columbia Spectator will meet the N.Y.U. News in a basketball game tomorrow at 3:00 in the University Hall Gym. Art Harnett, of the Physical Education Department has volunteered his services as referee.

Tennis Squad In 11 Matches; List 6 Cinder Meets

Columbia's tennis team will compete in eleven matches and the track team will enter six meets during the Spring campaign, according to schedules released yesterday by Ralph Furey, director of athletics.

The schedules:

Tennis

April 12, CCNY, at Lewisohn Stadium; 15, Stevens Tech; 22, Brooklyn College; 29, CCNY; May 6, Navy; 10, NYU; 13, Army; 20, Cornell; 27, Princeton, away; June 3, Colgate; 10, Penn.

Track

April 28-29, Penn Relays, at Philadelphia; May 6, Army, Dartmouth, Columbia, and Pittsburgh, at West Point; 13, Princeton, Navy, Penn, and Columbia, at Princeton; 20, Heptagonal Championships, at Philadelphia; June 3, NYU; 10, 4A Championships.

When a button comes off, sew it on well the first time. A slipshod job just means you'll have to do it over again soon.

Make your next shirt an Arrow. Arrow buttons are attached with a patented stitch, which "anchors" them to a shirt.

Check your size—you may be wearing too small a shirt and therefore causing too great a strain on the buttons and seams. The Sanforized label in an Arrow shirt guarantees shrinkage no greater than 1%—no danger of an Arrow ever getting too small!
